Redtail's Death Oneshot

Cats shrieked all around him. The noise pounded in his ears. Riverclan was winning, but, being Thunderclan deputy, he had to push on. He saw Oakheart in front of him and let out a snarl, knocking the brown tabby into a small confined cave. Once inside the screeches and caterwauling of fighting were slightly muffled. "Redtail!" Oakheart growled, baring his fangs at the other deputy. "This is m-" the ginger tom was cut off by a loud cracking noise. "The cave - it's collapsing!" Oakheart yowled, panicked. Redtail could smell fear sent coming off him in waves. He leaped and made it out - just. When turned around he saw a small Brian paw sticking out from under the rocks. "Oh no Oh no!" He murmured. Then he got a look at the battle. Thunderclan was losing. Badly. "Thunderclan - retreat!" He yowled darting towards the bushes. He was about to escape when he felt strong paws push him down. "Tigerclaw?" He said puzzled that at what his clanmate was doing. "Time to get rid of you..." He growled. A searing agony went through the ginger as teeth tore at his flesh. Blood poured everywhere. Right before he plunged into blackness he saw a small black apprentice with a white patch on his chest. Ravenpaw. "Go Ravenpaw go! Tell the clan of the evils that Tiger...Claw ha-has... Committed... With those last silent, urgent pleadings Redtail drifted down into the blackness of death...
